Mrs. Karen R. Atkins, Central High School's Dedicatory for the senior class, also an alumnus of Central High School. Karen Atkins, like other faculty alumni, is a role model for CHS students. Mrs. Atkins has two beautiful daughters and a handsome son: Sokari L. Atkins, age 14; Ciera L. Atkins, age 12; and Alton L. Atkins, age 7.

As a life-long resident of Chattanooga, she received her B.S. in physical education from Central State University in Wilberforce, Ohio. In 1986, she earned her M.S. in Guidance and Counseling from Tennessee State University in Nashville, Tennessee. In 1987, she earned her +45 in Supervision and Administration from Trevecca Nazarene University in Nashville, Tennessee.

While at Central High School, Mrs. Atkins served as the JV Cheerleading sponsor at from 1989-1992. She currently serves as guidance counselor for grades 10 and 11 and is also the testing coordinator for Central High School. Karen R. Atkins views her job responsibilities as being an avenue for students' success.

Because of her dedication to Central, Mrs. Karen R. Atkins exemplifies an outstanding alumnus. Her greatest satisfaction received by working here is helping students achieve their goals. She feels that helping students to believe in themselves is the first step to success. Motivation is important to Mrs. Karen R. Atkins.

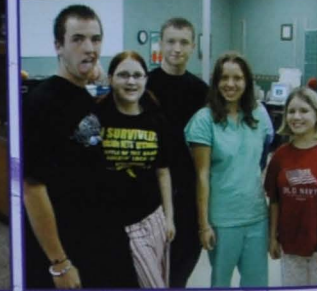

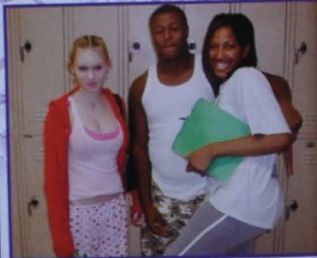

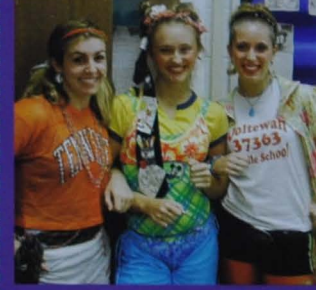

As an advisor, Mrs. Karen R. Atkins proclaims, "In whatever you do, work to be the best." In order for a student to be successful they should follow this formula: self-control + self-esteem squared plus understanding minus failure equals success. This concept was learned from the person she admired the most, Dr. Alton A. Roberson, Jr., a retired neurosurgeon from Los Angeles, California.

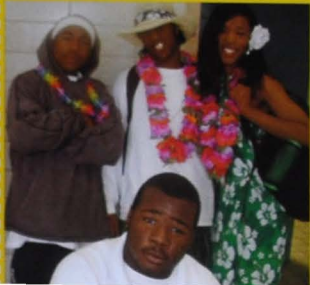

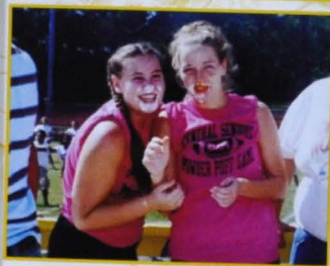

Mrs. Karen R. Atkins has contributed a great deal to this school. She contributes love and concern for the students for their education. Mrs. Karen R. Atkins works closely with the sophomores and juniors. Mrs. Karen R. Atkins works in the guidance department where students receive the help in scheduling their classes according to their academy and their future.

CLASS HISTORY

BY BRITTANY PARKS

As they begin to fly out the window to happier thoughts in the future, we cannot help but to think back to 206 Central High seniors who were lifted into the air on an adventure none had ever dreamed of. On a journey to a world unknown back in 2001, they stopped at a land called "freshman" and managed to pass a place called "senior land."

If you took on that adventure you would have seen Ashley Williams as president, Brent Hayes as vice-president, Mindy Davis as secretary, and Christina Duncan as treasurer of the freshman class. Whitney Parks and Sarah Beck along with four others flew in as Student Council representatives, while Brandon Odom and Beau Wiess played varsity football with eight others. Brian Kjeldgaard flew solo in cross country while Krystal Batts, Robert Woods, and Gary Bloodsaw flew in track beside six others. Kristen Wiekert, Christa Turner, and Christie Catchings served many volleyballs in the air. Andrew Lowe and Mary Taylor kicked several goals in boys and girls soccer. Brent Hayes dribbled the ball down the court as the only freshman basketball player. Jessica Boyd stepped in and helped the Lady Pounders. Heather Chauncey and Kala Cooper along with two others hit home runs to the sky in softball as Fabian Timmons did in baseball with supporting Diamond Dolls, Jessica Petty and Lindsey Walker. As wrestling cheerleaders, Brittany Parks and Ashley Bass cheered on wrestlers Kendrick Suria, Cliff Wright, and Daniel Fullam. Fifty-five students survived Cultural Studies with Mrs. Staton and Mr. Houghton. Lakiesha Pugh and Brittanee Williams served the Spanish Club, while Kent McGuire spoke French. Alex Moyers and Lee Cope designed the website, as Tara Harris and Joel Ruiz drew art. The color guard earned three freshman members and danced along with 22 band members. There was an amazing choir with 25 singing voices. FCCLA saw five new members while FBLA saw ten new faces. At the end of this adventure, the student body voted Brent Hayes, most athletic boy. Andrew Lowe was voted "Best All-Around Freshman."

As they left "Freshman Land" they came upon an even more exciting place called "Sophomore Land." Ashley Williams and Brittany Parks ruled the land as co-presidents, with Dana Fine as vice-president, Kenny Nicholson as secretary, and Lauren Dukes as class treasurer. John Cornett hopped off the skateboard and joined the football team along with Mikos Norman. Brittany Moon teed off in golf. Cody Stokes joined the Cross Country team and Brittany Johnson joined the track team. Varsity Cheerleading welcomed Lindsey Walker, Ashley Bass, Abby Darnell, and three other smiling faces. The boy's basketball team continued with the help of Travis Frost. Jayne Herndon joined the tennis team. New to the wrestling cheerleading team was Ashley Chapman, as she cheered on wrestlers Matt Taylor and Josh Frederick along with four others. Derrick Painter and Ryan Norris played on the baseball field as Ashley Bass and Brittany Parks cheered the team on while Whitney Usher and Lucas Palmer ran track. Additional members were added to the band such as Ashley Cranford and Brian Wallace and in ensemble were Amy Cole and Kerri Kocincki. Jessica Boyd showed good leadership, and Kendra Wallace served as a Student Council representative. Mu Alpha Theta welcomed Angel Strickland, John Avery, and Ashley Vaughn along with thirteen others while Tanesha Townsend and Isaac Washington took a right stand. Bailey Smith and Caitly Woods made FCCLA possible. Brittany Parks was inducted into Y-Teens and Amber Melton and three other girls were inducted into Tri-Hi-Y. FBLA welcomed Josh Doremus with the French Club added Jillian Ford and Mary Woods. At the end of this adventure, the student body voted Amy Cole, "Next American Idol" and Taylor Thomas "Most Opinionated Boy." Fabian Timmons was voted "Best All-Around Sophomore."

Just when you thought this fun-filled adventure could not get anymore exciting, wait until you hear what happened in a strange place called "Junior Land." Dana Fine moved to the position of class treasurer, while Kerri Kocincki flew in as vice-president with Brittany Parks as president and Kenny Nicholson ruling the seat of secretary. Erin Johnson joined the varsity cheerleading team, while Brandon Farrow and Beau Weiss putted on the green. Kristal Batts dominated the track while Javier Espinoza and Omar Nash kicked many goals in boy's soccer. Jacob St. Clair played baseball along with four others while seven Diamond Dolls cheered them on. Jamel Hambrick helped the Varsity Football team make it to the second round of the playoffs while Tara Harris dominated the bowling lanes. Among the forty-seven American Studies survivors were Sarah Woods and Kelley McNabb. Caren Ayerdi worked on the newspaper staff while Kala Cooper worked on the yearbook staff. In this adventure Kendall Smith and Ashlee Cranford were inducted into the National Honor Society while Coby Rader and Mark Jones were inducted into the National Beta Club. Haley Laster and six others were in leadership. Kirsten Phillips served on the executive board of Student Council, Brielle Kennedy served as vice-president of FBLA and three were represented in FCA. Kellen Shaffer joined the Art Club, while Sarah Beck participated in Model UN. At the end of the adventure, the student body voted John Avery, "Next Donald Trump." Kenny Nicholson was voted "Best All-Around Junior."

Wow! What a wild and exciting adventure it has been. Boy, were they tired. This was the last place they visited. And you thought they had fun in junior, sophomore, and freshman land? Listen to this. Flying through this land, they felt on top of the world! There were some minor changes as officers were Kenny Nicholson as president, Kerri Kocincki as vice-president, Brittany Parks as secretary, and Dana Fine as class treasurer. Senior marshals were Erin Johnson, Haley Laster, Lindsey Walker, Chad Wheeler, and Sarah Woods. Alternate marshals were Ashley Williams, Ashley Bass, Christina Duncan, Kendall Smith, and Caren Ayerdi. Kirsten Phillips joined the Varsity Cheerleading team to support Beau Wiess as Mr. Football, while Brielle Kennedy and Abby Darnell teamed up as co-captains of the varsity cheerleader squad. Ashley Bass and Fabian Timmons were crowned Homecoming Queen and King. Thirty-three players participated in Powder Puff. Two seniors continued to play girls soccer and seven played on the baseball team. Kerri Kocincki was captain of the tennis team and Kristen Wiekert was the captain of the girl's basketball team while Javier Espinoza served for the last time as the captain of the soccer team. Mindy Davis was on the bowling team and Coby Rader pinned to win on the wrestling team. Eleven girls were inducted into Y-Teens and ten seniors flew into Tri-Hi-Y. Levi Braswell designed the school's website. Mary Taylor was editor of the yearbook staff. At the military ball, Steven Sherrod and Nicole Tolbert were crowned king and queen. Senior Day was a site to see when Kenny Nicholson and Haley Laster were crowned Mr. and Mrs. Central. On Senior Day, the ensemble sang with members Amanda Shipp and Ken Holt, with Amy Cole as Senior Day soloist. Cody Stokes and Ashley Bass were crowned prom king and queen. Valedictorian for this wild adventure was Kirsten Phillips and Salutatorian was Christina Duncan. Carrie Morris, Brian Wallace, and Kyndal Mercer rounded up awards in Senior Superlatives.

You will see these students embarking on a new adventure with new experiences and accomplishments. I will be willing to bet that we will see them flying over clouds so high for their many successes as they continue their journey to college and explore other areas of life. I wish you all the very best life has to offer such a bright and talented class, and remember, to just think one happy thought you will be lifted into the air to dreams that you never imagined in your life.

LAST WILL & TESTAMENT

READ BY ASHLEY BASS

Having been appointed reader of the will for Central High School Class of 2005, I, Ashley Bass, do hereby publish and declare the following to be the last will and testament for the Senior Class.

I, Caren Ayerdi, will all my Asianisms to Edward Chang in hopes he will continue the legacy.

I, Ashley Bass, being strong minded will to Katie Johnston, the ability to make it through Centrals' drama one more year.

I, Dana Fine, will Mr. Phillips everyday to be national "Pink Day."

I, Willie Hogan, will to the seniors of 2006 my determination and enthusiasm; to the juniors I leave my kindness, to the sophomores I leave my way with words, and to the freshmen I leave my knowledge of the ancient and forgotten, but the world will always be mine.

I, Heather Leamon, will my little sister Elizabeth Leamon my courage and confidence through the rest of her days at Central.

I, Brittany Parks, being of sound mind and body, the most high intelligence and spirit-filled personality, will to the entire student body the ability to excel high in all endeavors, to keep your minds focused, and to never give up.

I, Kirsten Lenae Phillips, being of sound mind and body, do on this 10th of May 2005, will to my brother Jeb Garrison Phillips (a.k.a. "biggy") many happy times, good friends, caring teachers, fun spirit weeks, crazy pep rallies, and pleasant memories from Central High School.

I, Mary Taylor, being of senioritis stricken mind and body, will to Ashley Harden and Andee Crawford the strength and sanity to survive Mrs. Holder's reign over the yearbook staff for yet another year. I know you two can get through it together. Good Luck!

I, Kristen Wiekert, will Biggy Small, G-Mamma, and Lil' Dirty, the ability to play the best they can in each basketball game. I also will Kristen McGill and Kelly Tweed the will to keep it below the border.

We, the Senior cheerleaders, of great minds and awesome bodies, will the 2005-2006 varsity cheerleaders out good looks and great skills.

The above Will and Testament will become affective at midnight May 21, 2005 as we fly off into our futures; thinking happy thoughts.

SENIOR PROPHECY

BY ABIGAIL DARNELL

As I was walking back to my convent from a prayer vigil early one afternoon, I ran into an old familiar face from high school. It was Carrie Morris. "When did you become a nun?" she asked. I told her that after college graduation, I discovered there was just no other place for me than in God's house. We started to talk about all the crazy things that happened at Central High. We laughed for hours, but finally got tired and decided to meet up the next day. That night while I was praying and talking to God, I asked him, "God, how are all my fellow Central graduates?" God replied, "Well, Abby, let me show you..."

A vision came to me with most of the people with whom I had graduated. The first thing I saw was who had been the cutest couple at Central High, Brandon Farrow and Brielle Kennedy. "Did they ever get married?" I asked God. "No, he replied, quite the opposite." The vision continued to show Brandon and Brielle broken up. Brandon had used his earnings in his baseball career to have a baseball surgically attached to his hand. Shocked, Brielle realized his love of the game had just gotten too weird and immediately dumped him and married another CHS alumnus, Kenny Nicholson, a big time fashion guru employed by Brittany Parks or known today as "The Best Dressed Female in America." "How's that going?" I asked. "Kenny makes Brielle bathe everyday, much to her unwillingness. 'What about Brandon?'" I asked. "After the heart wrenching break-up Brandon married the only woman who would truly accept him for who he was, Shunoo Jacks," replied God.

"What else happened? Anybody in jail?" I asked. "Why yes," he replied. "As a matter of fact, Kelley McNabb has had a very long career in the justice system. Just recently she was appointed a Supreme Court Judge and has sentenced several of your old friends to serve hard time. For instance, Jessica Petty is doing time for theft." "What did she steal?" I asked. "She was caught stealing a priceless painting from the Metropolitan Museum in New York and replacing it with her own work." "Her... steal... I can't imagine that!" I exclaimed. "She actually kind of likes it in jail, though. She is, obviously, the prison favorite because she's so pretty. Jessica isn't the only one there though. She sees some other familiar faces every day. For instance, Josh Frederick is serving a life sentence for blowing a simple prank into a big deal and getting a little out of hand with a baseball bat." "Wow... what else?" I asked. "Well, he's not exactly in jail... he's escaped," said God. "Cody Stokes has been on the run from the cops for five years for completely drenching Ooltewah High School with eggs. It seems his position as principal was only a ploy to get keys to the school and finally take out all his built up anger for the Ooltewah Owls. Anyway, after realizing he could not return back to his home, Cody ran 100 miles through the woods to a chicken farm run by some of his old friends Derrick Painter and Lee Cope. They all manufacture eggs to sell to high school students to do whatever they want with them... egg friends', teachers', even principals' houses, and convincing them that eggging is the only way to solve problems."

"Okay, enough about the criminals," I said. "What's going on with everyone else?" "Well do you remember when Gary Winnie and Daniel Fullam just disappeared after graduation? Well five years later they were all over the news media because they drove into town with the legendary Big Foot attached to the front of Gary's jeep. When asked to comment, Gary said, 'I killed him with my bare hands.' They presently have a talk show entitled Tall Tales: The Adventures of True Country Boys.

"What about some of my old Directed Studies friends, where are they today?" "Christa Turner is a world famous butcher at the Wal-Mart deli department, Alex Moyers joined traveling circus and Christina Duncan became an astronaut." "Wow, an astronaut, that's pretty impressive!" I exclaimed. "Yes, with a 30 on the ACT, you can do whatever you want." "Well she did always have her head in the clouds," I said. "Yes, but now it's in a professional sense," said God. "Caren Ayerdi has taken over all Mr. Wok locations and turned them in to the most profitable Asian... Chinese... Philippine... or something, food chains in Chattanooga."

After thanking God for this truly enlightening vision, I decided to get some sleep. While asleep I had the craziest dreams about some more of my classmates. I dreamt of a newspaper headline that read "Kick 'em to the curb." I immediately thought of Aaron Schofield. The article explained that Aaron had begun writing his own advice columns much like those of "Dear Abby" and "Kick 'em to the curb" was Aaron's trademark advice for solving problems. I flipped to the Sports section and saw a picture of the world's most accomplished Mexican soccer star. It was Javier Espinoza, pictured wearing so many awards medals around his neck that he could hardly stand. Also in Sports, I saw a picture of Kristen Wiekert and Kala Cooper. The article raved about these two ladies being the most accomplished women the wrestling world had ever known. Their fighting records were undefeated. "Ashley the Amazing" was the next headline to catch my eye. It revealed that Ashley Bass had won the Olympics in acrobatics with her unexpected flips and surprises, including her attire being a little unorthodox; she always competed in a formal gown. She said it was something to do with good luck. As I turned to local news I further read that Jacob St. Clair had become the town hero for saving life of Joel Ruiz after Joel accidentally caught himself on fire, again. In the Entertainment section, I saw a show I had to have tickets to. Kerri Kocincki was starring in her very own Broadway play with co-star Amy Cole. Also in Entertainment Mark Jones is said to be driving the ladies wild with his gorgeous hair and astute fashion sense. It seems his multiple talent show wins were a real motivation for him. Unsurprisingly, a full page shot of John Cornett, Justin Hix, Randall Tipton, Kendrick Suria, and Josh Sullivan graced a page of the newspaper. The headline read, "NSYNC turns to Lip sync." NSYNC's label had discovered these boys to be much more talented than the original band and had asked them to take their place. In the Politics section I read that Sarah Woods had been announced the as the new advocate for the Bush campaign, but was quickly terminated because of several attempts to run from the cops, surprisingly, after really committing no crime. The last event in my dream was the most startling of all. In an article about arrests, I was amazed to discover that Dana Fine and Lindsey Walker were in lots of trouble for some very serious charges. After years in high school of doing nothing wrong, they had finally decided to have a little fun. The only problem was, they went a little too buck wild.

I awoke and realized I had only been dreaming. I got into my robe and proceeded to the library. Bored, I grabbed the Guinness Book of World Records. I started flipping through the pages and surprisingly found more Central students. For example, the tallest man in the world, standing at a towering 11 feet 4 inches, was Fabian Timmons. The largest man in the world was a tie between Brent Hayes and Beau Weiss. The subscript beneath Brent's name stated that he had gotten so large that he actually had to have T-shirts specially made because he could not find any in stores that would fit him. I browsed through some more books and found one written by Amy Hickok entitled How To Get Through High School Without the Hassle of Actually Being There. Another book was by Kristen Phillips. I sat down with this book called Air For Brains and began to skim through it. The book discussed the possibility of having lots of book smarts without any common sense. Kristen defended herself by saying that her seizures had messed up the part of her brain that held her common sense. I laughed silently remembering she graduated never knowing how to get to her house.

As I began to walk back to my room, I thought to myself about all the things that had happened in high school: the fights, the games, the parties, and all the people. I decided that if I had one more chance to say anything to everyone in my graduating senior class it would be to tell them that I have been in all of their shoes, and I know what it's like. I truly hope no one ever thought that I had judged them or done them wrong, but we were just kids. I would wish all of them good luck in their lives, but would ask them this one favor: lighten up and take a joke.

POEM

In This Journey Ahead

By Caren Ayerdi

In this Journey Ahead
When all are set to rise
All you have to do
Is open your eyes.

There is more in the future
A story to unfold
Only you have the power
To shape and mold.

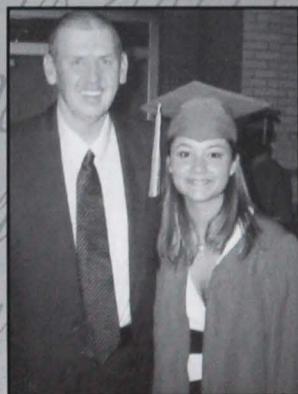

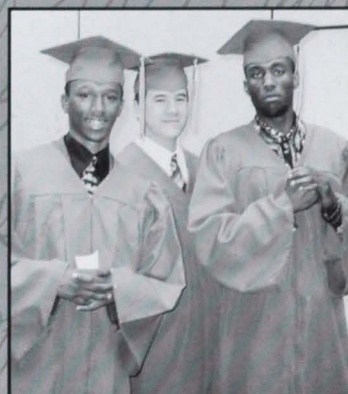

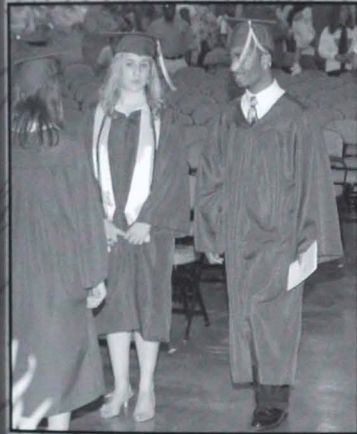

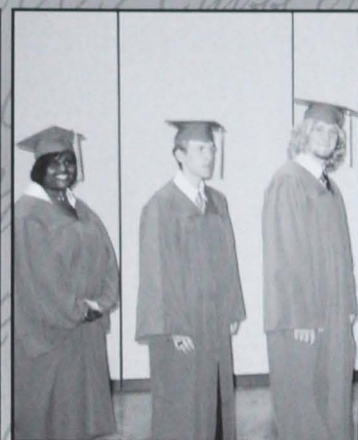

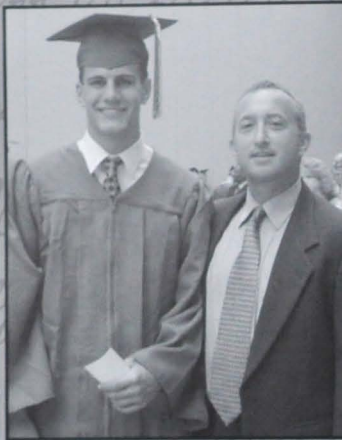

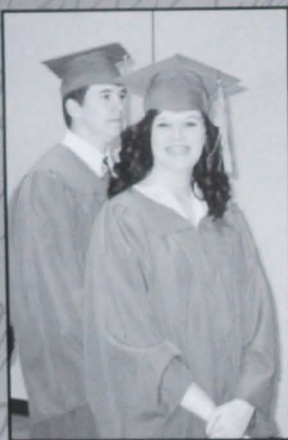

For tomorrow has trials
As you dream to live up
Fulfill expectations
And never give up.

For you've made it this far
You should feel good to thrive
As you've become graduates
Of two thousand and five.

But don't forget memories
In halls of Central High
Your friends, peers, teachers
As you say goodbye,

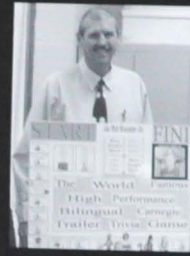

Stand proud, look up with hope.
The path, hard it seems,
Walking in search of
This journey of dreams.

Kristen Wiekert

You have given us so many precious memories over the years as you have grown into a beautiful young woman. We wish you the best in everything you do.

We love you!!

Mom & Dad Grandma & Papa

Congratulations

Ryan, we are so very proud of you. You're an example of what a perfect son is. You have accomplished a lot, but still have so much ahead of you. Follow your heart and dreams and always put God first.

Mom and Dad
