

WHEN Time with corroding finger
Has wrought on memory's page,
When associations no longer linger,
But new scenes and faces you engage,
Indulge in sweet reflection,
Feel the thrill of recollection.

From the realm of memory's bingdom
Woo them gently one by one;
Scenes of sweet association,
Hallowed days of work and fun;
Forget not study day and night,
Interspersed with pure delight.

In this treasure chest so precious
From the dim and misty past,
May you neet again in memory
Central mates and friends so fast;
If you find that this is true,
We have done what we would do.

"Central Is Twenty-one and Is Still Growing"

N VIEW of the magnificent structure of the present Central High School, it is hard to realize that it was only twenty-one years ago that Central High School had its beginning.

In a small brick building on the mortheges corner of Willow and Chamberlain Streets, the school was started, but it was not long before the ensulinatest outgrew such small poarters. Through the efforts of some leading citizens, public opinion was amount to the needs of the situation and in spot the Country Court passed a resolution authorizing the arrection of a modern school building. The present site on Dodds Avenue was selected as a suitable location for a school and countraction began the same year. As often happens in such cases, work on the solding was delayed, thus making it necessary to hold claves for half a year in the building of the old Kidgodale Grammar School. Finally, however, the building was completed and in sport the whool was opened with an organization of ten heathers and several bundered students. The original structure which consisted of what is now the center section was built at a total

The first principal of the school was Mr. A. E. Darrow, under whose capable management splendid progress was made. So popular was the institution that at the end of the first year it was necessary to enlarge the building and an addition, the east wing, was made. Shortly afterward the Gymnasium was added and physical training became part of the curriculum.

The second principal was Mr. J. S. Zeigler, during whose administration the school grew steadily. In 1920 Mr. Zeigler was succeeded by Mr. S. E. Nelson,

During the eight years of Mr. Nelson's principalship the growth and development of the school have been continuous and rapid. The south wing, which contains the auditorium as well as class rooms, was added to the building in 1925. In 1926 the north wing completed the present structure, making the building one of architectural beauty and grace.

At present Central High School is one of the best equipped schools in the state while its schools examine standing places it on the list of accreding preparatory schools recognized from east to west. There are at present about sixteen hundred students and a faculty of more than sixty members. Central students and alumni now numbering in the hundreds or perhaps thousands, point with pride to their Alma Mater.

The history of the school from the beginning has been a brilliant one. The first twenty-one years of the life of a school or individual are usually fraught with doubts and uncertainties but now that Central has "attained her majority," everything indicates a future of continuous progress.

Central's Twenty-one!

I hear a thousand voices,
In notes blended swert and clear,
And still thousands more advancing
Join in and listen there.
It is a rare occasion,
Which charms the very air;
Sons and daughters pay homage
To their Alma Mater fair.

Myriad and myriad of voices
Chime together in familar song,
And others speak their praises
Of experience rich and strong,
No note of sadness is sounded,
None with her can compare;
Sons and daughters pay homage
To their Alma Mater fair.

Up from the ranks advancing, What can the meaning be? Boys now grown into manhood, Doctors and lawyers I see. Each is bearing a banner, Proudly he holds it there; For sons and daughters pay homage. To their Alma Mater fair.

At last the spell is broken,
The dream unfolded lay;
The cause of this rare occasion,
"Central's twenty-one," they say.
"All who know her love her,
No one unfaithful there;
Sons and daughters pay homage
To their Alma Mater fair."

The Class of 1928

CLASS history means little to the outsider, who does not understand the impalpable spirit that is stored in the heart of every Central student, and particularly in the students of the Class of 'zk. It has been our aim, first, so let those who preceded us in these halls know that we have tried to advance the standards they left for any, and is every way live up to the priceless heritage and ideals of Central High School. It has been our further purpose to gather here and there a thread of events that may be so woven together into a web of memory that it will recall something of those days of work and happiness sustained by that intangible spirit which bound us together as brothers.

When this class came to Central in 'a4, four hundred strong, they very soon learned that there was no "Open heasms" to success in their high school career. They had the usual experiences of the green freshmen who learn much, by hard knocks, in the school of experience. In the spirit of good oportuneaship these knocks were horse, and we came out the better for them. Our watchword from the fire has been, "work" and "co-operation," With such a metra, supported by an admirable spirit and good judgment, the success of the class along all lines of school activities has been outstanding.

An instance of good judgment was in the choice of officers to guide through the four years of high school life. Eugene Mayer was elected president in 1924, and succeeded himself in each of the three years which followed. Eugene did his work faithfully and well, and his leadership will be always remembered with pride and pleasure. Other officers who have given the class their loyal support are Mary Helen Richardson, Howard Anderson, Muzelle Vandezgriff, and John Waller. The Class of '21 commends highly the excellent and efficient service of these members, and gives to them much of the credit for the way in which the class worked so well together.

Socially, this class has proven a success. We remember well, first as guests, then as hosts, the Freshman-Sophomore parties and the Junior-Senior hanquets. Many pronounced the Junior banquet of '22, at the Read House, the most orderly and most pleasing social event in the history of the school. Entertainments given by this class have always been received well. "The Gonoe Hangs High," a modern drama presented in our Junior year, and in the Senior year, "The Taming of the Shrew," a Shakespearean comedy, were both most creditably given. The leading roles were taken by Gladys Hickey and Jack Sherman in the Junior play, and by Anna Maye Lieb and Jack Sherman in the Senior play.

In the field of athletics this class has left a splendid record. In the two successive years that Central held the city championship, the Class of '23 was well represented in the personnel of the team. Members of the team of '27 and '28 have become immortalized in the hearts of the Central students. The Thanksgiving game made the student body realize the power of that indissoluble school spirit embodied in the team.

Many have been the associations and friendships formed here. Perhaps in years to come, over no period of our lives will the light of happy association shine more brightly than over these four years spent at Central High School. Many of the lessons taught will be forgotten; others remembered will become a part of life's rich heritage. In spite of the fact that some things must pass into oblivion, we like to think of others as lasting through life, like the staunch, true friendship of Mr. Nelson and the kind and gentle influence of Mother Callis, both of whom commanded the love and respect of every boy and girl of the class.

As the years have come and gone, each seems to fade into insignificance as compared with the last year. "As goes the Senior Class so goes the school," If this is true, from all indications the Seniors have not been faithless to their true, for never has Central had a more successful year than that of '27'88. This year it was found that in addition to regular work much time must be spent in keeping up the traditions and customs established by previous senior classes. Now, with many of these things behind us, and perhaps the most cherished and best yet to come, the Class of '28 all join in reverent unison to their Alma Mater, saying, "Truly it has been good to be here."

Junior History

N September, 1925, there set sail upon the sea of accondary education the good ship, "'29," manned by a joily crew of boys and girls. To be sure some of the sailors were a bit inexperienced. There were slight attacks of seasickness at first, and many wailed that we were indeed, "all at sea." But soon the waves ceased to rock us so violently, or to seem so big, and we grew to like our new home on the "rolling deep."

Then, too, we chose a valiant captain, George McCarty, who assisted by chief mates, Wilhelmins Haggard, I. T. Holden, and Marca Jackson, taught up the mult prooftice and make ancedire. Haggard, J. T. Holden, and Harry Jackson, taught us to pull together and make speedier progress.

Our first encounter was an amicable one. The good ship, 'at, thinking perhaps we felt a bit lost and lonely on the high seas, invited us to moor our boat and board theirs for the evening. We were delighted with the hospitality of their jobly class and had a very enjoyable evening. We were delighted with the hospitality of their jobly class and had a very enjoyable evening. trip, indeed. For a long while everything was peaceful and we, as freshmen, were "meek and mild."

In the fall of '26 we manned our oars with an air of seasoned veterans. There were sighs for comrades who had been lost upon the rocks, but joy in the companiouship of new recruits.

Our noble captain, Frank Bradford, took the helm with Howard Hammond, Howard Smith and John Seagle as first mates. When we first left port, the harbor was hidden in a fog of confusion but this cleared with the coming of the sun in the shape of our first loss meeting.

Life at sea was rather boring and we craved excitement. Suddenly from out of the sky came a giant green bird-like object. It was manned by about 400 queer-looking individuals, whom we soon found to be Freshmen. Being of a hospitable nature we hailed them and asked them to stop with us a while. They were delighted and accepted readily. We entertained them as best we could during the evening, and when they departed from us they declared that they had had a wonderful time.

A short time later our squadron was suddenly attacked by a huge war-ship! City High! Each ship chose a group of warriors to fight for our squadron. Our ship was represented by Bradford Seagle. We waited. The routine of the ship was suspended! We watched with mingled feelings of hope and fear! At last the battle was over! The Purple and Gold crew was victorious! How proud we were of them! How proud we were of our Alma Mater!

There were many forms of amusement during the trip. There were also many troubles and trials, but before we realized it, we had reached the island called Vacation. Half of our perilous trip was over! We had a hard time entering the harbor, for it was barred by some very dangerous whirlpools—final exams. At last we were safely anchored. What a shout went up! How glad we were! Oh, how rich that island with good times! How luxuriant it was in laziness!

When the twelfth of September rolled around we were all ready to go aboard. It was decided we should change ships again. We went aboard the "Jolly Juoi go," which was even nicer than the "Sophisticated Sophomore." We had very few new recruits, but a number of our members had fallen in love with some of the native "hulas" and loitered on the beautiful isle.

There was a great deal of responsibility on our new ship. Our craft was one of the leaders. If we went astray the whole squadron would follow. Everyone had an especial place in the routine of work for our Alma Mater. Captain Bradford was re-elected. His mates were George McCarty, Dorothea Hart and Maude Smith. This noble crew piloted our ship through many troubled waters.

"Soon was called a council straight, Brief and bitter the debate."

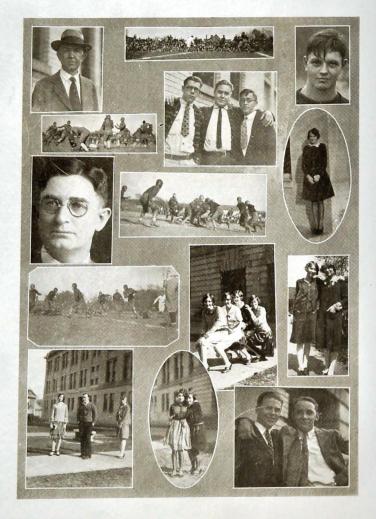

Our ship was low on provisions. We decided to be real pirates and entice all our rich friends to our lair. We erected a number of tents on our decks and used a number of clever devices and games to lure our friends to their fate. We were very successful and were able to carry huge trunks filled with golden coins to the Central High School Bank.

Several weeks later we passed the last peninsula of Vacation Island. We were so close to shore we were able to see a billboard which read, "Col. Chas A. Lindbergh will stop at this city for a few hours today, October 5th." We decided we would declare a holiday and visit the city to see the world-famous hero. After several months of calm, peaceful weather and happy sailing we again became restless and demanded some recreation. In answer to our demands we were given a play to amuse ourselves. We chose to work. We issued invitations to all our friends to visit our ship on February 10th, to see our most brilliant and successful suitors perform. The performance was a great success and the praises we received for the star performance were numerous and enthusiastic. After the excitement caused by one dramatic attempt, life was calm and peaceful once more. But soon there rose a cloud on the horizon. Final exams were again attacking us, and struggle as we would, some of us were unable to free ourselves from their fatal clutch. Even while we were vainly trying to conquer our ever dreaded enemy, we received word that our sister ship, "Seniors," would leave us to drop anchor at her final destination. We suspended our battle and gave a final farewall party for our comrades. We had a royal feast and a jolly good time in spite of the sadness we felt as we watched our Senior ship receive her honorable discharge and sail away to unknown seas.

CHAMPION

I SEEMS to be a generally accepted fact that all freshmen are green—a fact fortunately not so much recognized by individuals of the class at that time, as perhaps, in the following year. The present Sophomore class was no exception to such a fact. Theirs was the true verdure of the freshman, but since greenness indicates growth, it is with a feeling not of shame, but rather of pride that this class now recalls its history of nearly two years.

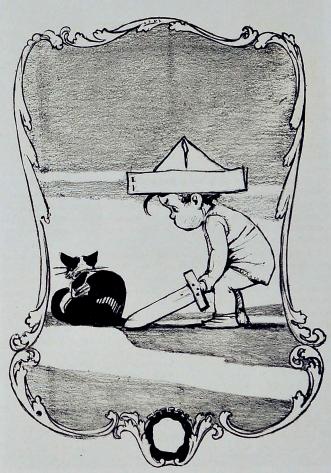

It was in the early fall of 1926 when the first meeting of the class was called and out of a chaos of about four hundred or more freshmen came an organized body with Wilbur Peterson as president; Earnest Horton, vice-president; John Starr, secretary; Buford McGhee, treasurer. These officers realizing the responsibility as well as the honor conferred upon them conducted themselves in a most creditable way, whether on the football field fighting for the Purple and Gold, or at the Junior-Senior Banquet, representing the class. Very noticeable progress in these officers is indicative of the progress in the entire class. Much bashfulness has been overcome; much selfconfidence and wisdom gained, while the Central spirit has become a part of the individual make-up of each member.

The class of 1930 during its existence at Central High School has been an active class manifesting commendable spirit where class pride and school spirit were contested. Whether gainers or losers the situation has been met well. In athletics the class has made a splendid record. In football, Howard Smith, Wilbur Peterson and Chester Underwood have been the means of bringing credit and honor to the Purple and Gold. In basketball likewise the class has reason to be proud of Fred Sheerer. In 1927 the freshman girls won the loving cup in girls' athletics for superiority over other classes in this line of work. In the Orchestra and Glee Club, Dorothy Martin, Jewel Kragen, Elizabeth White, Edna Gothard, Marie Schneider have made for themselves and their class a name worthy of recognition. In the ticket-selling contest of 1926, this class won third place—an honor not to be despised when the inexperience of the class of that time is considered.

In this the Sophomore year the outlook for the class of 1930 is most promising. With efficient leaders, Robert Baker, president; Wilbur Peterson, vice-president; John Martin, secretary; Hortense Byrd, treasurer, class spirit has been keen and loyalty to Central has been displayed repeatedly.

The Class of 1931

ATE one winter evening, sitting before an open fire gazing into the dying embers I found myself trying to visualize a scene fifty years in the future while a friend and I, as elderly women, indulge in reminiscences of our high school days and I tell of a class which entered Central High School one day in September, 1927.

It was a bewildering situation—that twelfth day of September, 1927. This unwieldy mass of Freshmen—a little shy and timid from entering into a field entirely new—was the largest class that had ever entered Central. The ushers who were stationed here and there in the halls were our salvation. They were Senior girls who answered our inquiries pleasantly and directed us to our class rooms. In these trying days of the first few weeks, kindness and courtesy shown us by the faculty and upper classmen are well remembered.

Our teachers were not merely instructors, they were advisers and friends. Very soon we became acquainted with Mother Callis, our school mother, who proved a friend indeed for she was always a friend in need, ready to comfort, cheer and advise us.

In a short time we were invited to join the different societies and enter various outside activities. Many of us availed ourselves of the opportunities and soon became so interested in our work, societies, and athletics that we almost forgot that we were beginners.

Early in the autumn a lively contest was staged by Freshmen and Sophomores for subscriptions to the Central Digest. Many Freshman classes reported one hundred per cent. How proud we were of the victorious record of our first contest! The next important event was the day when we first assembled as a class to elect officers. After a lively contest, Bill Waller was chosen president; Howard Brown Blakely, vice-president; Ida Wee Mabry, treasurer; Corrine Mayer, secretary; Helen Hall and Henry Rouse, cheer leaders.

From this time on things seemed to follow fast one upon the other. In the Central-Baylor game Freshmen could not be distinguished from Seniors, for already they had caught the Central spirit. Our pride in Central's victory was demonstrated by an enthusiastic "pep meeting."

Words seem inadequate in trying to describe the spirit shown in the Central-City game. Every member of the class apparently felt his responsibility. How proudly the Purple and Gold waved over us! Were cheers ever louder? Could students have supported their team more valiantly? No wonder was it that the team won laurels under such circumstances.

How vivid the impression of the Junior carnival that year! I was never before convinced that "smoke burned," nor did I know that Juniors had such an insight into the future, for their fortune-telling was a revelation. Again class pride ran high for a dainty Freshman was nominated for Carnival Queen. The class showed good judgment in the choice of Ida Wee Mabry.

To the Press Convention which met for the first time in Chattanooga and which was sponsored by Central High School, the Freshman Class sent Robert Mann and Glenn Tallant, as representatives. These brought back an interesting report and gave inspiration for the convention next year.

Soon the year passed from autumn into winter and winter into spring which brought its festival and activities. Then came commencement when with envious eyes we watched the Seniors, hoping that we too some day might enjoy these same privileges.

Thus ended one of the happiest years of my l'fe, so filled with bright spots that the darker days are almost entirely overshadowed.

The Reserve Officers Training Corps

HE duty of protecting our homes, our property and our families from the dangers of invasion by a foreign foe rests primarily with the Army and Navy, and every male citizen between the ages of eighteen and forty-five years is, in time of national emergency, subject to military duty.

The United States Army is now, under an Act of Congress composed of three parts, namely: The Regular Army, the National Guard, and the Organized Reserves.

The Regular Army has always been small and will always be relatively so. It is composed of a small body of highly trained specialists, whose duty in time of a great military emergency is to organize and equip our citizen armies. which will in the future, as in the past, make up the greater part of our military forces in time of war.

While the Regular Army is most needed and appreciated in time of war, there are many examples of its valuable peace-time service—the great Galveston flood in 1900, the destructive earthquake and fire in San Francisco in 1906, the building of the Panama Canal, the eradication of yellow fever in Cuba and Panama, thereby removing this menace from our beloved Southland: all remind us of the peace-time value of our Regular Army.

The National Guard, now better and more efficient than ever, has always covered itself with glory, as in the World War, and will ever be an important part of our national defense.

The Organized Reserves, however, is the larger part of our Army and it is with a branch of that body that I wish to deal in this article.

Just now we have the best and greatest number of reserve officers, for the Army, in the one hundred and fifty-two years since the birth of our nation. But this splendid body of officers, trained by experience in the World War, is being depleted each year, by retirement, disability and death. How shall we maintain this splendid reserve? The answer is: by promotion and replacement from graduates of the Reserve Officers Training Corps.

The Junior Units of the R. O. T. C., of which the Central High School Battalion is one of the very best I have ever known, will furnish a very large number of officers for the reserve and a large number of the officers of the regular service. Many appointments to the U. S. Military Academy and to the U. S. Naval Academy are members of Junior R. O. T. C. units.

Any graduate of a Junior R. O. T. C. unit, can by successfully completing two C. M. T. C. summer training courses, qualify for a commission in the reserve of the United States Army and many young men are taking advantage of this opportunity, thus fitting themselves for greater service to their government and to their communities in times of emergency.

Great as is the value of the training from the standpoint of preparedness, the value of the physical training, building of erect, active and healthy bodies; the development of potential leadership in the boy, giving him confidence in himself and starting him off in his chosen business, profession or vocation with the belief in his ability to succeed, is even greater; and the respect for legally constituted authority, observance of and obedience to reasonable rules and regulations required, is the best way to teach respect for law and order and to make good law-abiding, peaceful, happy, contented citizens—the greatest achievement of all.

LIEUTENANT-COLONEL JAMES E. WARE.

ATHLETICS

Central's Coaching Staff

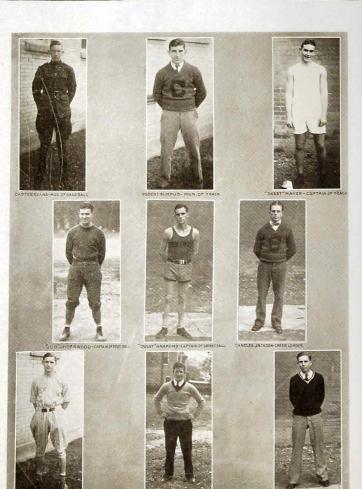

Central with sincerity and much pride makes the boast that her coaching staff is unsurpassed by any high school of the south. Without fear is such a claim made for the proof is self-evident.

Dean Peterson, one of Central's own football products with the polish of four years at Auburn and now for three years head coach of Central's "Purple Gridders," has an enviable reputation not only as a coach, but as a man. By his stern insistence on wholesome sportsmanship in every phase of the game he has taught his men not only to be good football players but with it to be clean, honest men which is, after all, the end desired. For two of the three years that he has been head coach at Central his teams have been City Champions, a record of which Central is proud.

Coach Bales, a strong support in football and head coach of basketball and baseball, is known by his work. His interest in athletics is far from narrow for it extends into almost every line, but if asked his favorite, no doubt basketball or baseball would be his reply. From a thorough knowledge of these games both in theory and practice he has made a coach loved and admired by his men both for h's skill in the game, his manliness, and strength of character.

Seeing Coach Setliffe far removed from the football or track field no one would fail to recognize him as the real athlete that he is. His entire bearing is indicative of his athletic prowess. For his good sports anship and success in the field where he labors his men admire him. As head coach of track in 1927 he brought renewed interest to the game and developed a team for Central with one of the best records of many seasons.

CAPT. HERMAN "JUG" UNDERWOOD, Center Weight One Hundred and Seventy-Fve Pounds Three-Year Letterman

Jug has been the backbone of Central's line. Working at the pivot position he has made outstanding plays both on the offensive and defensive. Since this is Jug's last year he leaves a vacancy which will be very hard to fill. As captain he has been one of the best, always ready to help and always giving all that he had to the Purple and Gold. He was chosen for the All-City team and his name will go down in Central's football history as one of the greatest of her long list of fighting captains.

HOMER "SATCHEL" KEY, Halfback Weight One Hundred and Fifty Pounds Two-Year Letterman

As captain of Central's team for next year, Key deserves all the honor that has been given him. He is a true triple-threat man. He is one of the hardest driving, shiftiest, and fastest halfbacks ever to wear a Central uniform. Not one game passed without Key's coming away with another star in his crown. His passing and punting could not be surpassed. By his tackling he saved many touchdowns. What would the City High game have been without Key? As a safety man he was more than once the salvation of the Purple eleven. Central is looking to him as Captain of the 1928 team to lead his men to a clean unquestioned championship.

DONALD "FATTY" JONES, Tackle
Weight One Hundred and Ninety-Two Pounds
Three-Year Letterman

Donald is another man of the All-City team who has been a mainstay in the line of his own home team. His plays were especially noticeable in the City High and Baylor games. His work on defense was particularly good. Central will gladly welcome his return another year as alternate captain.

> HOWARD "BUS" ANDERSON, Halfback Weight One Hundred and Fifty Pounds Three-Year Letterman

Bus has a head which he knows how to use on the football field. He has that enviable trait of dependability at all times. He is always known to get his man and pave the way for the other back carrying the ball. He is a good tackler. In the Baylor and Philips High games he played star football. There was great excitement in the Philips High game when Bus caught a pass and with snappy side stepping ran forty yards for a touchdown. Central will miss Bus when the team is rounded up in 1928.

Ed is one of the most unusual quarterbacks Central has ever called her own. With three years of rich experience, in this, his fourth year, he has played and run the team with great success. Besides receiving All-City honors for three years he was considered the best in the city on receiving passes. Leaving Central this year there is made in the Central team a wide gap which will be most difficult to fill.

RAYMOND "HOOK" DEARING, Guard
Weight One Hundred and Seventy-Three Pounds
Two-Year Letterman

As a guard Hook is a hard-fighting, scrappy fellow. He drives low and hard and seldom misses his man. The Purple line expects Hook back in position next fall holding that line like the great guard that he is.

> OBERT "No-HIT" TIMMONS, Guard Weight One Hundred and Sixty-Five Pounds Two-Year Letterman

Like a tower of strength in the Purple forward wall has stood Timmons for two years. Undaunted in the City High game he stopped without question attempts to gain at his expense. From the minute the whistle is blown every ounce of his strength turns into power for the Central machine. His plays are consistent. He is a hard worker from start to finish.

OWEN "BASHFUL" BARNES, Tackle
Weight One Hundred and Sixty-Two Pounds
Two-Year Letterman

Although this was only the second year for Barnes on the team he played like a veteran. He proved to be one of the hardest fighters Central has ever produced, He was a deadly tackler and did equally as well on the offensive. In the City High game Barnes by sheer courage and strength broke through the strong Maroon line for many an attack. Central's interest is centered on Barnes for another year. New honors it is believed await him.

When Waller reported for his first year he weighed little more than a hundred pounds, but the next year with added weight plus determination, he gained his 'C." He came into possession of his second nickname, '70-Yard,' when he ran a punt against Darlington in '26. As Ed Peterson's understudy in '27 he called signals when Ed was not present. This he did creditably and well. Since Waller possesses the true Central spirit, always doing his best without kicking, the team regrets that graduation robs them of such a man. Any team that gets Waller may count itself lucky.

Weight One Hundred and Sixty Pounds Izzy proved without question his ability as a ball carrier in the Fort Payne, Kingsport and Notre Dame games. Whether he hit the line or ran the ends he always gained. He is a fast snappy football man though slightly "bashful." Unfortunately, during the Baylor game he was hurt and was unable to return the rest of the season. He is expected back next year and will no doubt share in the spoils of the victors.

GLENN "LADIES' MAN" HUNT, End Weight One Hundred and Sixty Pounds

Because of a shoulder injury, Glenn has been unable to enter into action as he m'ght otherwise have done. Yet in spite of such a handicap in the Baylor and City High games he was seen stopping every attempt to get around his end. He was strong on the offensive. His loyalty to the Purple and Gold as well as his dependability have given him a place all his own on the team.

JOHN "TRAMP" SEAGLE, Guard Weight One Hundred and Sixty Pounds Two-Year Letterman

There was a great addition to Central's team in 1926 when John came from Baylor and cast his lot with the Purple and Gold. He was one of the scrappiest little guards seen here in many seasons. For two years he has helped to form Central's stonewall and right well has he held this position. He is another member expected back next year to take his same old place in the same old line.

OTIS "BIG MOUTH" LEE, End
Weight One Hundred and Fifty-Nine Pounds
One-Year Letterman

Lee has the reputation of being one of Central's fighters from start to finish. He never gives in; he never stops until the game is ended. His outlook for next year is one of the brightest of all those who are expected back.

CHESTER "TOUCHDOWN" UNDERWOOD, End
Weight One Hundred and Fifty Pounds
One-Year Letterman

For a man entering Central for the first year, Chester has done excellent work as an end player. In the Darlington game he was given his chance and proved himself worthy. In the Philips High and A. M. I. games he played football like an "old timer." With such a reputation for one-year Chester bids fair to follow in the footsteps of his captain brother.

BONDS "BALL-OF-FIRE" GARMANY, Quarterback
Weight One Hundred and Thirty Pounds
One-Year Letterman

Red has always been a hard-working man. As a quarterback he is hard-driving and fast. In the Fort Payne, Red took a punt up the field for about thirty-five yards in professional style. With more experience it remains to be seen just what "Ball-of-Fire" will do.

VERNER "SHEIK" HEADRICK, Guard Weight One Hundred and Seventy-Six Pounds One-Year Letterman

Headrick has the distinction of being the only freshman to make a letter this year. In spite of his lack of experience in the beg nning of the year, he developed into a good guard. In the Phillips High game he stood like a bulwark and stooped all attempts made to come over him. In the next years, Central will follow with interest the development of this outstanding young player.

EUGENE "SKEET" MAYER, Fullback

Weight One Hundred and Eighty-Four Pounds Although injured for much of the season, "Skeet" played star football while he was in. With him in the line there were no gains by the punting route. In the City High game, he played a big part in stopping the line attacks of the Maroon and White. Skeet has left an enviable football record at Central. His popularity among the students has been tested many times and Central will find his place one that will be hard to fill.

> FRANK "WINDY" BRADFORD, End Weight One Hundred and Forty-Five Pounds Two-Year Letterman

Bradford is one of the best end players Central has ever produced. With such evidence of development and power Central hails with joy his return next year. As a tackler on punts he is deadly, having lived up well to his "never miss" reputation. On the offensive he always gets his man. A fellow has something to boast of if he gains a vard around Bradford's end.

WILBUR "HARDHEAD" PETERSON, Halfback Weight One Hundred and Fifty-One Pounds One-Year Letterman

Wilbur has the reputation of being one of the best and hardest driving backs, not only at Central, but in the city. He made a perfect running mate for Key. When Wilbur is called on to carry the ball you may well mark it down as a gain. In the City High, Phillips High and A. M. I. games it was Wilbur who starred. This last member of the Peterson family seems to have every promise of carrying on the reputation in the field of football.

PAUL "TACKHEAD" SELLS, End Weight One Hundred and Forty-Two Pounds One-Year Letterman

Tackhead can always be distinguished for he is one of the tallest men of the team. When Central's name and reputation are at stake, Paul's courage and fighting qualities are altogether out of proportion even to his height. It was a great disappointment to him not to get to finish the season, but an injury in the Kingsport game forced him to the side lines. He is a hardworker and always ready to give his all for his school

Howard knows football and knows how to play it. He was unfortunate in receiving an injury in the fourth game, which kept him on the bench for the rest of the season. Since he is the kind of player who has real "come back" Central expects him to return next year full of fight for another victorious season.

> JAMES "PINKIE" LEWIS, Halfback Weight One Hundred and Fifty-Five Pounds One-Year Letterman

For a shifty, hard-driving backfield man, Lewis is hard to beat. On defense, for a man to get by him is a wonder. He bids fair from all appearances to be one of the outstanding figures in Central's starring line-up for 1928.

> CLARENCE "SLICK" PALMER, Guard Weight One Hundred and Fifty Pounds One-Year Letterman

Hard work brings its own reward and that is what Palmer has enjoyed. Nothing but this best effort for his team has been acceptable to Slick. Work and hard work has been his motto since he has been numbered in Central's guard line. Central regrets that graduation will take Palmer from her.

ROBERT "SIGNALS" BUMPUS, Center Weight One Hundred and Fifty-Three Pounds One-Year Letterman

When Bumpus received his letter the student body rejoiced with him and felt that again spirit and effort had been rewarded. For four years he has come out faithfully and although he didn't play as much as some of the others, he was always there ready for service. He deserves his share of the credit for Central's victories. Next year Bumpus is expected to step into the limelight.

W. B. "SCRAPPING" GARRET, Guard Weight One Hundred and Fifty-Five Pounds One-Year Letterman

Size is not the only thing that counts in the case of a guard. Although Garret is one of the smallest men on the team he is at the same time one that everybody knows is on the firing line ready to hold his place and fight. With such bright prospects and unusual development in football playing Garret will strike the team a heavy blow by his absence next year.

J. L. "JAKIE" LAMB, End Weight One Hundred and Forty Pounds

When letters were given out, "Another one well deserved" was the remark made concerning Lamb. He has been a faithful, hard worker, always out for practice, always there to do his bit. With such promise as he has for a football career it is with sincere regret that Central gives him up this year.

CENTRAL HIGH CHAMPIONS

Central, for two years in succession, has won the City Prep Championship in football. Two beautiful silver footballs, now on display in the office, bear testimony of the superiority of these teams. In winning this year's championship, Central defeated Notre Dame, 6 to 0; Baylor, 7 to 6; City, 7 to 0. For Central this has been a very successful season, with seven victories, one tie, and two defeats.

Basketball Men

FRANK BRADFORD, Forward

Windy is just as swift on the basketball court as his name indicates. His good work with the team for a second year is one reason for its continuous improvement. He has a sure eye for the basket. When he aims, cheers begin almost immediately, for it is a dead certainty that the ball is going in.

HOMER KEY, Forward

Key is one of Central's best all-round athletes. Of his star playing in football much has been said, but that is not all, for in basketball he has proved himself equally as good. He is quick and sure; he never misses a shot. Central expects "Satchel" to do his part in raising her points above that of any previous year.

EUGENE MAYER, Guard

"Skeet" is another star brought over from last year. He has the size and height together with many other desirable traits which go to make up the all-round athlete. In his position he plays well and ruins many shots for the opponents.

CARL HAMMOND, Guard

With three years of experience on Central's team Carl plays like a veteran. "Mutt," the center of Central's pass work can send the ball in any direction at any time. His self-possessed, cool-headed playing has meant much to his team. Others may be rattled but he always keeps that same calmness that has characterized his playing through many a game.

CAPTAIN HOWARD HAMMOND, Center

With three years of rich experience Didley has not only borne well his responsibility of steading his team of 1928, but also has played the best basketball of his cage career. He is one of the most outstanding basketball players that Central has ever produced. His passing is skillful and effective and at goal shooting he is a star. When Central has the ball and when it is in Didley's possession there is no fear for the Centralite.

Basketball Men

HAROLD REICHARD. Forward

"Heimie" is small but fast and moves around on the court in a pleasing way. His splendid skill at passing has fooled many an opponent. He is alert and sure which are two valuable characteristics in a basketball player.

GEORGE McCarty, Guard

George is one of the hardest fighting men on the team. He never knows the meaning of "quit." His close, careful guarding has been a big factor in holding the opponents' score down. The team counts heavily on his support.

FRED SHEERER, Center

Although this is Fred's first attempt on Central's team he has made good from the very beginning. He is one of the surest point makers among the cagers. From the way he hits the basket no one would ever judge him to be anything but a professional.

DONALD JONES, Guard

"Fatty" means business and fights with might and main when he gets on the floor. Although this is his first year on the team his playing is like that of an experienced man of long standing. His is one of the men who adds promise to Central's prospects for the season.

PAUL SELLS, Guard

Paul is another athlete who turns naturally from the gridiron to the cage when the season dictates. He has some advantage over the low man for he towers so far above him. He is another "Olson" when it comes to passing the ball. His shot at the goal is almost a sure point for his side.

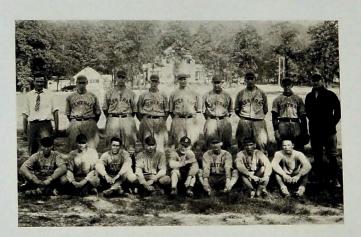

Track

The year 1927 was a successful one in track. Central won second place, defeating Baylor and City High for the first time in several years. First place was won by Eugene "Skeet" Mayer, in the shot put; by Howard "Bus" Anderson in the javelin throw, and by Charles Jackson in the half mile race. Kermit Maxwell won second place in the mile race. Central expects him to take a step forward and win first place this year. George McCarty won recognition in the high jump. Searcy and Preston, '27 graduates, were also outstanding men.

The prospects for the team of 1928 are favorable. About twenty-five men are expected to go out. The team will take two trips; one to Sewanee and the other to Knoxville for the State Tournament. In addition to this they will take part in the Baylor relays.

Efforts are being made to do away with the City Tournament this year and bring all the schools here that wish to compete in a Southern Tournament. It is expected that Central will carry off the honors at that meet.

Baseball

The baseball fans of Chattanooga are looking forward with unusual enthusiasm to the 1928 season among the prep schools. An investigation of Central's prospective team seems to indicate an extraordinarily successful season.

Central will feel keenly the loss of three strong men of last year, Captain McInturf, George Cade and Ed Brown, yet with the good support of so many letter men and the addition of Dearing, Buchanan, Horner, there is little reason for discouragement.

The probable line-up for 1928 will be as follows:

C. Hammonds						4									. First Base
BLAKE					-	16	747								Second Base
BICE			4		245										Second Base
ED PETERSON .		-	14			-21									Third Base

The Public Speaking and Dramatic work has proved to be a vital factor in the school life of Central. That the classes in this work have a desirable influence in the student body is shown by the number from these classes that stand foremost in the reading, declamatory and oratorical contests, the plays, and the speakers chosen to represent the school at various occasions in the city.

All phases of work from extemporaneous speaking to the acting of the most classic drama are brought out in the class work and prepared for public recital.

The technique of voice production, gesture, and stage is studied in a way that is most enjoyable as well as most profitable.

Personnel of the Varsity Glee Club

SOPRANOS: Roberta Bryant, Barbara Bush, Eloise Faulkner, Jewel Kroeger, Wilma Planzer, Dorothy Perry, Mabelle Stinson.

ALTOS: Dorothy Arwood, Dorothy Martin, Hazel McDonald, St. Claire Silver, Elizabeth White. TENORS: Eugene Welch, Fred Woods, Wheelan Palmer. BASSES: Ford Peters, Walter Luther.

The Varsity Glee Club has had a very successful year, as has been partially shown in the number of programs that they have given both in school and out. These programs have incorporated music of many various styles and types, and have furnished educational entertailment for their audiences on numerous occasions. Their major performance for the year was the operetta, "The Gypsy Rover," which proved to be a success in every sense of the word.

The orchestra at Central this year boasted a wide-spread and well-deserved popularity. Their numerous out-of-school engagements proved effective incentives for earnest and profitable work. They had the honor of performing before all the prominent clubs of the city, in the leading theatre, over the radio, and before many of the schools of the city. Central can be justly proud of an orchestra that has so honorably carried its name abroad.

CHAMPION

Operetta

HE operetta, the Varsity Glee Club's annual presentation, was one of unusual merit and attractiveness. The performance was indeed a credit to amateurs and showed the marks of careful direction and persistent practice.

"The Gypsy Rover" was the title of the operetta. It was arranged in three acts and was built around the character of Rob, later known as Sir Gilbert Howe, of English nobility. Rob was stolen when an infant, by his nurse, Meg, who later became the wife of Marto, a gypsy. Rob grew to manhood among the gypsies, believing Meg and Marto to be his parents.

One day, while riding with her fiancee, Lord Craven, Lady Constance-Martendale became lost in the woods. They wandered to the gypsy camp where Constance and Rob met and fell in love at first sight. Later Rob went to the home of Constance and they planned to elope but were overheard by Craven who informed Sir George and plans were made to capture him. Rob was put in prison, but managed to soon escape.

Two years elapsed and Rob had his identity and wealth revealed to him. Constance remained true to her love for Rob and on his return to England, he wooed and won her for his wife.

The major leads were ably handled by Dorothy Perry and Eugene Welch, while the following gave equally creditable performances in the minor leads: Wilma Planzer, Ford Peters, Jack Sherman, Wheelan Palmer, Roberta Bryant, Dorothy Martin, and Horace Meadors.

The costuming, the stage settings and the dancing added greatly to the brilliance of the performance. The interpretation of the lines and both the ensemble and solo vocal work showed remarkable ingenuity and talent.

Minstrel

The 1927-28 minstrel of Central High School was presented on the evening of January twentieth with a cast of forty. Music was furnished by the R. O. T. C. band, and the usual large minstrel audience was present.

The performance was presented in three parts. These were: First, the minstrel proper; second, an olio of four acts, and finally, a one-act play. In the first part, the traditional "circle" was abandoned and the scene was laid at an old-time plantation store, with the proprietor acting as interlocutor. The blackfaces appeared as loafers, or store customers and a white quartet was present as a group of farmers "whittling" on the porch of the store. A girls chorus appeared intermittently as "Clementyne," granddaughter of the store-keeper and a few of her friends who had suddenly returned from school as a result of an unexpected holiday.

Twenty-three jokes or "stunts" together with two choruses, three solos, and one quartet were given in Part One. The "climax stunt" was a burlesque of a football player.

The olio consisted of four acts. The first of these was a song and dance act, in which nine girls took part. The second act was a "black and white" dialogue. The third was a dance act, and the last a group of songs.

For the play which concluded the performance, "The Thirteen Club," by Harry L. Newton, was presented, in which all of the "blackfaces" appearing prior to this time took part. This concluded an unusually amusing and entertaining program of two hours and a half.

Message of Alumni President

In the memorable year of 1997 Central High School came into existence. The old Ridgedale grammar school building, at that time located at the corner of Peachtree Street and Bennett Avenue in Ridgedale, housed the first classes. On January I, 1998, the present central building of the magnificent plant at Chamberlain and Dodds avenues was occupied. The first graduating class was composed of a mere handful of young men and women. Since that time the list of graduates has grown larger and larger vith each passing year.

Hundreds of those to receive a diploma at Central have either completed or taken college work; and today, out in the busy world, together with those who were not able to continue higher educational training, they are filling places of usefulness and service. The alumni of Central are acquitting themselves in whatever place they are filling in life in a manner that reflects credit on their Alma Mater. These men and women are not only fighting life's battles cleanly and honestly, but they are also foreging ahead as leaders.

Few, if any, have so conducted themselves as to bring any measure of discredit to the Purple and Gold institution so dear to the hearts of all its students and graduates. On the other hand, Central alumni by the hundreds -even thousands-are doing credit to themselves and Alma Mater. They are excelling in positions and professions of great responsibility and trust. They are mounting the ladder of success as doctors, as lawyers, as specialists, dentists, teachers, preachers, and as members of other professions and callings. In the business world, they are ably filling the most difficult and responsible places. Central girls of those early years, now to mature womanhood grown, are proving themselves ideal wives and mothers. They are gracing homes where happiness and refinement reign. They are leaders in church and social life.

The history of Central graduates is made brighter and more worth while when the records of the brave boys who volunteered for service during the Great War and went across to do their bit toward making the world safe for civilization are taken into consideration. These fighting men acquitted themselves like the true Centralites that they were. Some of them sleep in Flanders field and other quiet cemeteries of the war dead "over there."

So much for the accomplishments of Central alumni.

This article would not be complete without a word of tribute to those fine men and women who have taught at Central. The high and noble ideals and purposes implanted by Central teachers have caused Central graduates to rise above the commonplace and mount to the heights of accomplishment. Prof. S. E. Nelson, the present principal, is a man whose very heart beats for Central and her advancement. He is ably supported by an excellent faculty, and has worked wonders for the school.

A visit to Central's halls fills a graduate of the early years with a strange feeling. The old Purple and Gold spirit comes surging back with renewed force. Memories tug at the heart strings. The eyes become misty as scenes of by-gone days pass in review. The surroundings have changed tremendously. In those early days there was but the central building. It accommodatd the student body and there was room to spare. Now, since it has proved sadly inadequate, hadsome north and south wings help to take care of the vigorous young army of more than 1,500 students. There are the modern auditorium, the popular cafeteria, the well-equipped bank, and numerous other departments that were not in existence in 1907 and later terms.

Central, with proper support and backing from the county court and the school authorities, is but on the threshold of a sun-kissed future. The institution today ranks as one of the best in the accredited high school list. There it no limit to its possibilities.

Through the Central Alumni Association, two medals are now being given for the best all round graduate among the boys and girls. Members of the association are giving their support to the school in its undertakings. They are vitally interested in its growth and development. With the support of its membership, the alumni association can do great things for the school—things greater support of its membership, the alumni association can do great things for the school—things greater than the dreamer has yet dreamed of or that the thinker has thought of. Central may know that the alumni are with her, they are watching her success and rejoicing in it, and prophesying for her a complete fulfillment of the high hopes that they have placed in her.

ENNEST G. TAXLOR, President of Alumni Association.

Jokes

"The wisest men that are Have never thought it treason,' To rest a bit and jest a bit And balance up their reason; To laugh a bit and chat a bit And joke a bit, in season."

—Selected.

Father: "How many miles to the gallon?"
Mother: "What color is the upholstery?"
Son: "How fast will it run?"
Daughter: "Has it a cigarette lighter?"
Neighbors: "How can they afford it?"

Professor: "Give me a quotation from the Bible."

Student: "Judas went out and hanged himself."

Professor: "Give another."
Student: "Go thou and do l'kewise."

She: "Did you ever see Marion Talley?"
He: "No, you see, I never play bridge."

Charles: "I was once on the stage." Andy: "Yeah?"

Charles: "Yeah! I fell out of the balcony."

Anna May: "Do your boots hurt?"

Jack: "No, but my feet do!"

Our latest Scotch importation tells how Sandy MacPherson decided to leave school, because he had to pay attention.

Dorothy: "How do the pedals on the piano work?"

Bus: "Haven't you ever driven a Ford?"

"Say, give me a pound of good dog meat. The last I got made my old man sick."

Stubert Cade: "What would you do if you could play the piano like I can?"
Huff OBrian: "I'd take lessons."

A couple of Scotchmen made a bet to see who could stay under water the longest. Each put up fifty cents. Both were drowned.

She: "I was a beauty in my day."
He: "Just another day wasted away."

Employer: "Yes, I advertised for a good, strong boy. Do you think you can fill the job."

Bill: "Well, I just fin shed licking nineteen other applicants outside the door."

A SUMMER DREAM

Shady spot, Little boy, Watermelon, Smile of joy.

Large size mouth, Open wide; Watermelon Quick doth hide.

Summer night, After frolic; Boy is doubled Up with colic.

Mother weeps
O'er her cares;
Servants running,
Father swears.

Doctor comes, Rather gruff; Doses boy with Nasty stuff.

Night hath flown, Colic's o'er; Where's the melon? Boy wants more.

Impatient young flapper: "Tve been sitting here an hour and the vanishing cream hasn't moved yet."

John Waller: "When the Spaniards came to explore the coast of California, why did they not make use of the Panama Canal?" Ottis Lea: "They didn't know it existed."

"Hazel: "Who is that fellow with such long hair?"

Joe: "He's a fellow from Yale." Hazel: "Oh, I've often heard of those Yale locks."

Freshman: "Should a person be punished for something he hasn't done?"

Miss Barnes: "Of course not"

Freshman: "Well, I haven't done my English yet."

ALMA MATER

What a wonderful school is ours to love, With its ups and its downs and its joys;

What a wonderful banner the Purple and Gold,

As it floats o'er our girls and boys.

And this wonderful school that I love the best

Has a wonderful rep so high; So you've heard of the school that's true as blue,
Oh, that wonderful school, Central High.
